

A new development tool for health and wellbeing boards

Using the development tool

The development tool asks users to assess how their board is performing in relation to 17 key issues. The issues have been identified based on the outcomes from the design events mentioned above. When using the tool it is important to promote dialogue amongst the partners on the board about these issues.

The development tool can be used in a number of ways:

- by board members acting collectively to discuss and agree scores together.
- with the help of an external facilitator, to assist exploration of the issues, and to promote discussion.
- individually completed by members of the board working independently, (however this approach has the significant disadvantage that a useful exchange of views between partners is less likely to occur, and the process may therefore be less helpful to mutual understanding and board development).

Boards are invited to evaluate their position against the suggested criteria that are expected to characterise the achievements of a board now; in one year; and in three years.

It is to be expected that boards in the early stages of development will respond positively to a limited number of the criteria, but as they progress to maturity that position should improve. It is quite possible that a board completing the assessment today may not yet be at the point suggested by all 17 criteria in the 'Now' column. On the other hand, for some criteria it may exhibit advanced behaviour as projected in the 'In three years' column.

The development tool can be found online at http://www.local.gov.uk/web/guest/health/-/journal\_content/56/10171/3638628/ARTICLE-TEMPLATE

Next steps

The aim of the development tool is to support boards to discuss challenging issues, to inspire them towards transformational outcomes for their community, and to help them identify what action they need to take. It is expected that boards will wish to use the tool as a stepping stone towards developing an improvement plan to address their next steps. We intend to keep the content of the tool under review to ensure it meets the future needs of boards; we would therefore welcome comments about how the tool might be further improved. ## Support and assistance

Health and wellbeing boards are challenged to develop complex and innovative methods of working that require partnership of a new order. Help is available from several national and regional organisations to assist boards in finding their way.

A good starting place for assistance is with the LGA Health and Wellbeing Board Leadership Offer at healthy.admin@local.gov.uk where advice can be obtained on the development tool and a range of support options for boards.
