Setting our priorities

Over the last few months, leading councillors have been considering which of these many services are most valued by residents.

Cllr Hill said: "Public security is a particular priority for us, so we're proposing to protect funding in areas like safeguarding children and vulnerable adults, gritting roads and highways maintenance.

"That means the savings would need to be found within the other services we provide.

"But we want to know what residents think, and the best way to find that out is to ask them.

"We want people to tell us which services they value the most – and which they would be happy to see provided in a different way or not at all."

How to have your say
